

Cuqui's Bright Eyes and Signature Ringlets Capture the Sweet Innocent Love of ...

Valentine's Day

Elisa, the North American importer for Cuqui (pronounced cookie), introduces Europe's newest collectible. Cuqui is an exciting new series of precious doll figurines designed by artist Magda Genestar in collaboration with Elisa's renowned Spanish sculptor Montserrat Ribes. Genestar has been educated in fine art and is well known for her illustrations in numerous children's books. Already popular across the European continent, Genestar is now becoming recognized in the United States with the introduction of her charming Cuqui figurines, depicting a bright-eyed doll with signature ringlet hair, who reflects the joys she discovers in everyday life.

Each Cuqui figurine comes with its own storybook that shares the tale of that moment reflected in Cuqui's life. The actual Cuqui is a cloth doll that once arrived in the home of a little girl called Ani. From that moment on, Ani's Dad, Mom, little brother and sister became her family, and her adventures and mischief, her own stories. The Cuqui sculptures "For You," "With All My Heart," and "With Lots of Love" capture the spirit of Valentine's Day, as they reflect experiences of sharing and giving love. Cuqui figurines can be purchased in collectibles, specialty gift and hospital gift shops.
